Our Formal Opening Reception For the Exhibition of the Great Assembly of Spring and Summer Merchandise Closes With Today,

But every day will be Reception Day here from now on—an "Exposition"—an affair in which the season's creations shall be brought together wih agreeable surroundings for the inspection, instruction, amusement, interest of all who come to view them!

In Our Herald Message Saturday

We submitted some facts in reference to the wonderful completeness of every stock in our house and the preparations we'd made for a great spring business greater than ever before. Easter Monday witnessed a most auspicious beginning. Tuesday showed renewed vigor, and as the days follow in quick succession we shall make it more and more interesting and profitable for you to do ing with us. We merely point to a good thing here and there, not a word of the thousands

We repeat what we said Saturday—"We are going to assist you materially this season in your efforts to economize in the purchase of the needful supplies. This has been carefully considered, and we are going to do it by making prices lower than last season—lower than ever before. Of course, it is not possible to lower the price of every single article, but so large a proportion of balls seen here in many a day. The Carroll residence, on 16th street, while not one of the largest, is one of the most artistic in the West End, and lends itself specially well to purposes of festivity. The library and drawing room made the dancing space, and, like the hall, were set with tall vases filled with Easter lilles and longstemmed roses. A full-length portrait of the handsome young heiress forms now a most attractive ornamentation of the library. The cotillon favors, which Miss Carroll brought from Europe upon her re-turn a month ago, made a brave show of color themselves, arranged on screens at the far end of the drawing room. Most of them were paper novelties, gorgeous hats for the girls, caps for the men, peasants' silk aprons, butterflies, &c., for the girls, and bookmarkers, canes and fans for the men. Mr. Columbus O'Donnell Lee of Baltimore led the cotillon and introduced many new led the cotillon and introduced many new figures. One figure had an Easter flavor, for the leader came in with a cock's head mask. The couples danced to a barrel, where a hen sat calmly over a varied assortment of eggs. These were the favors that afterward decorated everybody. Miss Carroll wore a becoming toilet of white silk wreathed in pink roses. Mrs. Carroll was in pink silk. Among the guests were the Misses Pauncefote, the Misses Horsey, Miss Aileen O'Donnell, Miss Cavendish Taylor, the Misses Brice, Miss Fair, Miss Acos-Miss Alleen O'Donnell, Miss Cavendish Taylor, the Misses Brice, Miss Fair, Miss Acosta, the Misses Patten, the Misses Cameron of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Johnstone, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. Calderon Carlisle, Senator and Mrs. Hale, Senator and Mrs. Lodge, Mrs. Gardner of Boston, Mrs. Slater, Miss Gwynn, Mr. Taylor of London, Mr. and Miss Stewart and Mr. Robert M. McLane of Baltimore and many of the members of the diplomatic corps.

Mrs. Tateno gave a luncheon today of Mrs. Tateno gave a luncheon today of eighteen covers. The decorations were in white and green. The flowers were lilies of the valley, and the bon-bon boxes at each plate were prettily decorated with them. The guests were Mrs. Pugh, Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. Oates, Mrs. John Moore, Mrs. Guzman, Mrs. Shields, Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Mrs. Van Wyck, Mrs. Chas. Gibson, Mrs. Cushman K. Davis, Mrs. McArthur, Mrs. Mendonca, Mrs. Pilling, Mrs. Rockhill, Mrs. Geary, Miss Gorman and Miss Goto.

Mrs. McLanahan's dance for the Yale Glee and Banjo Club and base ball team last night was a great success. Mr. George X. McLanahan is a Yale man. The house, X. McLanahan is a Yale man. The house, with its ample entertaining space, gave every opportunity for the enjoyment of the guests. The only men outside the special guests invited were those who are recent graduates of Yale or known to be deeply imbued with Yale affiliations. While supper was being served the Yale colors in ribbons and Yale flags were the much admired decorations of the dining room. Among the young ladies present were Miss Train, Miss Crosby, Miss Johnson, Miss Steele, Miss Mitchell, Miss Wainwright, Miss Hopkins, Miss Ruggles, Miss Rochester, the Misses De Peyster, the Misses Boardman, the Misses Lawrence, the Misses Jackson, the Misses Berry, the Misses Mal-Jackson, the Misses Berry, the Misses Mul-len, Miss Lieber and Miss Norris.

Senator and Mrs. Brice gave a farewell dinner last night in honor of the Belgian minister, Mr. Le Ghait. The other guests were Senator and Mrs. Faulkner, Miss Herbert, Miss O'Donnell, Miss Stevens, Miss Pendleton, Miss Josephine Patten, Miss Fair, the Misses Brice, Count Reventlow, Mr. Horace Washington, W. V. R. Berry, Mr. Van Ness Phillip and Mr. Stroebel. Mrs. Frederick L. Chapin and Mrs. J.

Frank Holmes welcomed scores of their coming tollets as they entered the coming tollets as the coming tollets as the coming tollets as the coming tollets as flower bowers, with the profusion of lilies seen on every side, mirgled with paims. A mandolin and guitar orchestra played in mandolin and guitar orchestra played in the hall, and the entertainment was one of the prettiest of the season. Ensign Chapin was present to assist the ladies. Mrs. Chapin was elegantly gowled in pale blue satin and lace, and Mrs. Holmes wore a rich toilet of light brocaded satin and lace. Assisting them in their pleasing duties were Mrs. William E. Curtis, Mrs. De Castro of New York, pleasantly remembered here. Mrs. William E. Curtis, Mrs. De Castro of New York, pleasantly remembered here from her former residence; Miss Gilmore, Miss Sweitzer and Miss Johnson. The latter presided at the tea table. Miss Edith Holmes and her guest, Miss Eaton, who are at home for the holidays, also assisted. Amorg the guests who partook of this hospitality were Miss Morton, Mrs. Faulkner, Mrs. Van Wyck, Mrs. L.
